Thank you so much for participating in the international celebration of Open Access week 2015, organized by UHM Library. Your help on the Open Access information table in the lobby of Hamilton Library made it possible to provide information about Open Access in academia to 82 library visitors. This effort provided a rich venue for teaching our community about the value of Open Access to research and scholarship.

Open Access Week, a global event now entering its eighth year, is an opportunity for the academic and research community to continue to learn about the potential benefits of Open Access, to share what they've learned with colleagues, and to help inspire wider participation in helping to make Open Access a new norm in scholarship and research.

At this point in UHM's evolution in developing a more publicly-accessible scholarly communication architecture, it is clear that our efforts benefit enormously from the support of our University faculty and graduate students. That is why we are so grateful for your participation in the library's recognition of Open Access week at UHM.

Thank you.
